FUNDED ACADEMIC RESEARCH

- Center for Research on Innovations in Services and Equity in Mental Health (RISE – MH) and the Center on Race and Social Problems (CRSP) July 1, 2024 – June 30, 2025
Partnering with Black Mental Health Providers to Support Assessment and Evaluation of Practice

Black Americans have similar rates of mental health challenges but are far less likely to access services when needed. This inequity is in part due to a lack culturally responsive mental health services, including a shortage of diverse racial/ethnic providers. To bridge this gap, this study will use human-centered design methods to partner with Black mental health professions to assess their needs for assessment and evaluation in their practice, to understand successful strategies and barriers to conducting assessments and evaluations, and co-create programming, tools and/or services to support their practice-based needs.

Role: Co-Investigator

Award Amount: $14,801

- Pitt Momentum Funds July 1, 2022 – June 30, 2023
Taking Off the Cape: Removing the Cloak of Invincibility to Support BIPOC Graduate Students

The purpose of this pilot study was to learn more about the experiences of BIPOC graduate students in a MSW program at a predominately white institution by systematically exploring factors associated with stress, racism, and burnout.

Role: Co-Investigator

Award Amount: $10,916

- Center for Research on Innovations in Services and Equity in Mental Health (RISE – MH) July 1, 2019 – June 30, 2023
The CHURCH Project: Congregations as Healers Uniting to Restore Community Health

Despite the importance of faith communities to African Americans, little research and few mental health interventions explicitly incorporate clergy or faith. To address this limitation, mental health clinicians, researchers, community-engaged scholars, social work students, and African American clergy formed this research project to develop, implement, and evaluate an evidence-based and spiritually informed mental health training curriculum (Renew Your Mind) for African American faith leaders.

Role: Co-Investigator

Award Amount: $25,000
